

Anttack

A colony of ants attack a signed card. A card is selected and the spectator's favorite food is drawn on its face. The card is lost in the deck and the performer's hands are shown to be empty. The cards are spread face down and one is seen to be covered in printed ants. The card is turned over to show that it is in fact the selected card. With a flick the printed ants fall off the card and shower down into the spectator's hands. The card is then given to the spectator to keep. ANTTACK is perfect for leaving that lasting impression on your audience. Starts with the emotional attachment to food and end with a surprising fist-full of ants.

Double Decker

Two Awesome Effects. Six Great Routines. Two Ingeniously Gaffed Cards. #1; Extra Extra! A spectator selects a card from the deck. The performer attempts to read the spectator's mind. First he tries to guess the card's color, then the suit, then the value. He fails miserably from the very start. It turns out the spectator has chosen the GUARANTEE CARD that comes with every new deck of cards. Attempting to rescue the day, the performer asks the spectator to freely choose any of the dozens of words that are on the card. He concentrates. He looks the spectator in the eye. He successfully tells her the word she merely thought of! #2; Heart Transplant. The magician offers to perform a little "transplant surgery" for the entertainment pleasure of his audience. He tables the facedown two of hearts. He then picks up the three of hearts and visibly rubs off the center pip, turning the three into a two of hearts. He pantomimes dropping the "removed heart" on the facedown two Picking up the tabled heart, it's now a three, but the new heart is in the WRONG place! He adds another heart to it (making it a four) and that heart is BROKEN! Finally, he picks up the "butchered" four of hearts and asks a female spectator to touch it. This brings the four of hearts back to pristine condition proving, "a beautiful lady can fix a broken heart and that the magician's heart is in the right place." A very sweet ending to a very sweet routine.

Insomnia

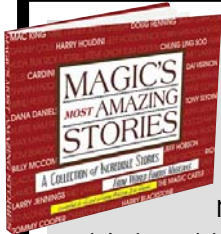

The magician asks a spectator to cut three 4-foot lengths of rope from an ordinary hank of rope. Two audience volunteers handle the ropes several times. Yes, unmistakably ordinary, separate, and of equal length. The magician then performs some initial basic magic with the three ropes. Suddenly the three ropes become transformed to three unequal ropes. The magician then explains that he only made the ropes appear to be unequal. He lets the audience in on the simple 'secret'. No sooner does the audience finish chuckling at how easily it had been deceived, than the ropes are shown to be actually unequal. Yes, unmistakably separate and unequal. Just as the audience gets over this shock, the three ropes suddenly become equal once again. Yes, unmistakably separate and equal. The routine has come full circle, and after performing some more magic with the same three ropes, the magician hands them out as souvenirs for examination. Effect includes practice rope and instruction booklet. R285.00

Nesting Wands (Multi-Colour)

One wand turns into five with a little help from a volunteer. You try to hand your magic wand to a volunteer, but after they take it, you still have a wand in your hand.. again and again and again and again. It's funny, and your spectator will have fun, too! R475.00

Flow

Dan Hauss has discovered a rare piece of "strange" that brilliantly abuses the laws of nature, allowing you to mysteriously and from a distance stop and start the flow of liquid from an innocent bottle of designer water. Your spectator actually experiences the entire astonishment in her own hands! You never touch the bottle-or water-throughout the entire effect. All can be immediately examined: the empty bottle, the spectator, you, the water, the street, everything! Dan Hauss' Flow uses a completely original crazy new principle that will leave you gushing with delight! The Set comes complete with: * Flow Gimmick * DVD * Bonus Effects. You will be able to prepare any bottle in under ten seconds! Works with bottled soda, tea, and most other beverages. No discs or caps are used. There is nothing to hide, steal or get rid of. You can even perform Flow while completely surrounded. Once the effect starts the performer never touches the bottle, the water or the spectator. You wanted something mind-blowing for a new act? Flow is it!

Stack Attack DVD

Stack Attack is a collection of absolutely stunning card miracles from Lew Brooks that are extremely easy to do. The reason is this, all of the work is done before the performance by simply stacking the deck in a prearranged order! This DVD contains eight card routines based on gambling themes and there's nothing hotter right now than gambling demonstrations. Lew will take you step-by-step through each routine. Lew also completely covers an extremely easy false shuffle sequence that anybody can learn in a matter of minutes. If you can overhand shuffle a deck of cards you can do every routine on this amazing DVD. Even though the techniques are drop dead easy to do they are totally deceptive. R285.00
